

Robert Meunier, President and Founder of Maestro Technologies, receives 2015 Canadian Construction Association Manufacturers, Suppliers and Services Award.

Varenes, Quebec, March 17, 2016. At the Canadian Construction Associations Annual Conference held last week in New Orleans, Robert Meunier, President and Founder of Maestro Technologies, received the prestigious Canadian Construction Association Manufacturers, Suppliers and Services Award for his dedication to responding to the construction industry's needs, and to being an active participant in industry associations.

Robert founded Maestro Technologies in 1989 and is recognized as an industry expert having spent close to 30 years in the industry as both a project manager and as a software engineer. Robert's passion for I.T. and construction have led to building a very successful business dedicated to software and applications specifically designed for the construction industry. Having built a team of construction industry specialists, Roberts' goal has always been to provide services that go beyond just meeting the needs of the industry. To do that, and to better lead his company, Robert has immersed himself in numerous industry associations, including l'Association des Constructeurs de Routes et Grands Travaux du Québec, the CCA where he serves as a provincial vice-chair, the CCA Civil Infrastructure Council as well as a member of the CCA Manufacturers, Suppliers & Services Council.

"I am extremely honored by this award" says Robert Meunier. "This industry is constantly evolving, especially over the past ten years as technology has become a driving force in helping construction companies gain a competitive advantage. Personally, this is extremely motivating to me as I truly enjoy the challenge of bringing new products to market that will help construction companies improve their processes and increase profitability."

"These award recipients make me very proud of our industry and our contribution to the Canadian society," said Anibal Valente, CCA's chair. "It is delightful to hear about the innovative approaches and what some of the truly exceptional companies, individuals and associations do. I wholeheartedly encourage everybody to visit the CCA awards website and consider submitting a nomination in the fall."

ABOUT MAESTRO. Founded in 1989, Maestro Technologies develops integrated software solutions specifically for the construction industry, featuring management and accounting that meet the industry's specific and complex needs. Throughout the years, Maestro's continuous technological advancements and strong commitment to research and development have set the company apart from its competitors. Thousands of users from Canada and the United States benefit from our solutions to improve their efficiency and increase their incomes. -30-

Press Contact: Vicki Grondin, Marketing. 450.652.6200 #272, v.grondin@maestro.ca